This guide was made possible by funding from
The Wallace Foundation,
The Stuart Foundation,
The William and Flora Hewlett Foundation,
The Walter S. Johnson Foundation and the
Office of Educational Research and Improvement
U.S. Department of Education.

Acknowledgements

CASN would like to acknowledge the contributors to this guide. Marilyn Raby, a CASN Field Consultant, conducted the research that produced the information contained here. Thom Markham, an academy teacher at Drake High School, combined this with his own knowledge and converted it to the format seen here. Bob Lenz and Tricia Ryan helped to edit and refine this further. Our appreciation is extended to all for their contributions.

Information Indexes

An information index is a set of topic menus and submenus where selections are narrowed to find what you need. Yahoo is the best known of these sites, but there are others that are great places to start for project and curriculum ideas.

Site	Description	Comments/Rating
Yahoo  www.yahoo.com	Use it for research on more popular or commercial topics. Other sites are more academic.	The biggest and best known, so it can't be ignored.
About.com  www.about.com	Has leads to all high school subjects. Links to LessonPlans.com (see under Lesson Plan Resources).	Especially good section on writing and poetry .
Britannica  www.britannica.com	Subjects to browse are infinite. Offers premium membership, but not necessary to join.	An oldie but a goodie. A nice touch: a list of recent New York Times articles useful in the classroom.
Galaxy  www.galaxy.com	Opens with a list of topics applicable to all careers, then links to a variety of subcategories. For example, agriculture can take you to fish farming in Nova Scotia.	This large site takes a while to load.
The WWW Virtual Library  www.vlib.org	Law, government, and protective services students will find a library of info on forensics .	Terrific compendium of well-organized, detailed information.

Search Engines

Search engines are the way to start if you have a phrase or special topic to research. Crawler-based search engines “crawl” or “spider” the web, and list their content automatically. Everyone has their favorites, but they do differ. Many sites use multiple search engines, meaning they search other sites for you.

Site	Description	Comments/Rating
All The Web www.alltheweb.com	All The Web provides both comprehensive coverage of the web, and outstanding relevancy.	If you can't find it on Google, try All The Web next.
Ask.com www.ask.com	Allows you to search by asking questions in a “natural language.”	Definitely worth considering.
Google www.google.com	Google is winning the race for most content indexed on the web.	It has a well-deserved reputation as the top choice for searching the web.
HotBot www.hotbot.com	HotBot provides access to the web's four major search engines.	It's a fast, easy way to get different search results in one place.
MSN Search www.msnsearch.com	There is a team of editors that monitors the most popular searches performed, and then hand-picks the sites that are most relevant.	Microsoft is known for constantly reworking a product until they get it right.
Northern Light www.northernlight.com	Designed to allow you to easily research current events topics.	Not as commercial as most search sites. Check 'Today's Headlines' for information on a hot topic.
WebCrawler www.webcrawler.com	Contains a comprehensive section on Careers .	Good list of other sites on specific topics.
MetaCrawler www.metacrawler.com	Check out the section on education . Arts teachers will also like the resources on design and the arts .	Good starting point for almost any topic.

Web Portals for Education

Web portals integrate information indexes and search engines into one site that offers resources, tools, and services for a particular field. Those listed here are geared toward education. Several are fee-based and contract with schools or individuals.

The LearningStation www.learningstation.com	A technology-oriented subscription-based service to schools.	Attempts to integrate technology in a meaningful way with curriculum.
NetSchools Corporation www.netschools.net	Net-based services, including hardware and software, for schools.	Plato Learning acquired NetSchools Corp. recently. Very organized net learning.

Lesson Plan Sources

These sites are sources for well-organized lesson plans, covering all subjects and grade levels. Browse these sites once a year before school starts, or use in a pinch. All are five star sites. Includes sites that will help on such topics as project-based learning, assessment, and Advanced Placement courses.

Analyze and Apply www.analyze-apply.com	Offers teacher-prepared, project based instructional units and on-line training for teachers in math, science, language arts, and social studies. One of the few sites to include SCANS skills in the content instruction. Use this site if you're searching for curriculum that integrates subjects, careers, and skills. Other lessons for occupations such as: ecologists, farmers, dieticians, physicians assistant, health researcher, expert witness and aerospace engineer. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Health</li> <li>• Ecology</li> <li>• Technology</li> <li>• Engineering</li> <li>• Communication</li> <li>• Arts</li> <li>• Math</li> <li>• Science</li> <li>• Social Studies</li> <li>• Language Arts</li> </ul>	Strong offerings of integrated classroom units: an 11th grade student might prepare a memo and a 10-minute presentation to a local hospital board on the history of birth control advocates after WWI. Also, good source if you're looking for professional development resources.
Columbia Education Center Lesson Plans www.col-ed.org	Devoted entirely to lesson plans. Maintained by a private educational service in Oregon. About 20-40 lessons in all subject areas.	Very teacher-oriented, no-nonsense site. You can go directly to high school lesson plans—all of which are classroom-tested!

The Educator's Reference Desk www.eduref.org	A great source for resource guides and lesson plans. Also, do your students need to know how to write a resume and complete a job application? Use AskERIC. ERIC is the world's largest source of education information, with more than 1 million abstracts of documents and journal articles on education research and practice. Our version of the Database, updated monthly with the latest citations available, provides access to ERIC Document citations from 1966 through April 2004 and ERIC Journal citations from 1966 through March 2004.	Best bets for lesson plans for high school teachers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Health (family life);</li> <li>• Arts (architecture);</li> <li>• Language Arts (journalism and literature);</li> <li>• Mathematics (algebra; geometry; calculus);</li> <li>• Social Studies (U.S. history, government, political systems, psychology &amp; current events)</li> </ul>
LessonPlans.com www.LessonPlansPage.com	A prime example of what you will find on this site: A complete unit on the Renaissance for world history, including daily lesson plans.	Easy to browse site for lesson plans. Topics for high-schoolers are well-described, and a detailed overview of each lesson or unit leads you in the right direction.
New York Times www.nytimes.com/learning	Media source for current events, the New York Times is also a source for lesson plans and curriculum. Lesson plan units use recent articles as springboards for examining important curricular topics. Lessons are designed to be shared with teachers in other content areas and to support interdisciplinary units. Recent example of a daily lesson plan: Carnival of Carnivores. Best Units by subject are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Global History</li> <li>• Science</li> <li>• Media Studies</li> <li>• Social Studies</li> </ul>	The New York Times archives contain hundreds of free lesson plans for grades 6-12. Fun features on the site: Word of the Day; and Who's Who &amp; What's What in the news.
ProQuest www.proquestk12.com	Searchable database for lesson plans, school reform, and student activities.	Another big site. Fee-based. Easy to use. Every resource imaginable for a teacher.

Sources for Online Projects

If you're searching for a project with a unique flavor to engage students and help them develop research and telecommunications skills, try these sites. They're inspiring. Included are sites on libraries and museums, which put you and your students in touch with experts and help you explore special topics.

The Franklin Institute Science Museum www.fi.edu	Some highlights: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Biology (the human heart and circulation)</li> <li>• Aeronautics (design an aircraft)</li> <li>• U.S. History (the life of Benjamin Franklin)</li> </ul>	Very friendly site for an educator.
International Education and Resource Network www.iearn.org	This network links up schools in different countries (or states) for projects. All projects end with an exhibition or product—which fits with an academy perspective. Examples of projects include clean water for Nicaragua, Balkans peace making, and a long list of environmental science projects.	If you want your students to participate in a global affairs project, this is the site to search. Five star site.
The NASA Quest Project www.quest.arc.nasa.gov	Searchable lesson plans for space and aeronautics. Good section on careers in aeronautics, plus K-12 teacher's guides. Current units of interest include Women of NASA and Astroadventures: Build a Habitable Planet.	If you want more general information on NASA, try www.nasa.gov/audience/foeducators/Redirect_SpaceLink.html
National Air and Space Museum www.nasm.si.edu	Offers a long list of publications for aeronautics.	If you like airplanes or spacecraft, you'll like this site.
National Archives and Records Administration www.archives.gov	Look for the section on the Digital Classroom, which offers lesson plans and ideas on how to use primary materials in history research.	A surprisingly interesting site. If you want a document or record, start here.

SitesAlive! www.sitesalive.com	A subscription service to web-based classrooms. Subscriptions are reasonable ($199 for 30 students per semester). Includes lesson plans, assignments, and web interaction with sites. This is the group that sponsors the Classroom at Sea.	Especially good on environmental science, such as classes in rainforest and fisheries restoration in Central America.
Smithsonian Institution www.si.edu	A site as large as the Smithsonian itself. Links you to all other archives and museums and offices of education throughout the government.	Browse this one over the summer, when you have more leisure time.
ThinkQuest www.thinkquest.org	This site has topics on most everything of concern to students. Some notable ones: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• entrepreneurship</li> <li>• study skills</li> <li>• values.</li> </ul>	ThinkQuest is mainly known for its collection of educational web sites created by its student and teacher community.
United States Holocaust Memorial Museum www.ushmm.org	A teacher-friendly site that will give you ideas, lesson plans, and resources.	Indispensable as a resource for teaching about the Holocaust.
Web Quest edweb.sdsu.edu/webquest	Inquiry and web-based based project resources. Includes about 500 projects for students in grades 9-12. In addition to traditional subject matter, the projects usually include work on life skills and professional skills.	These are collaborative, teacher written projects that are proven products. The projects are displayed using a common format—task, resources, problem, evaluation—that makes them extremely accessible.

Communications Media

The web offers access to interactive multimedia resources of all kinds. Many are familiar, such as www.cnn.com or abcnews.go.com. The sites listed here are designed more specifically for teachers and students.

History Channel  www.historychannel.com	Click on classroom resources for topics and teacher's guides for history . Of special note are the Oral History Interview Guidelines, which are downloadable as a handout.	Well-designed site with many options for teachers, including live webcasts.
Media Awareness Network  www.media-awareness.ca	Offers a clearinghouse of information, teaching units on media and communications , student handouts, and media education tips.	The best site for media and communications . Comes from Canada, with a refreshing perspective on the media. Five star site .  Best bet: online modules to teach students how to surf the web.
Time for Kids  www.timeforkids.com/TFK	Clickable headlines lead you to just the right information. Shows you how to structure a lesson around the news.	User friendly, current site that allows you to integrate current events into the classroom. Check this site out when a breaking story impacts your subject.
U.S. News Classroom Program  www.usnews.com/classroom	Similar to the Time site, but more focused on: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Politics</li> <li>• Government</li> <li>• International Affairs</li> </ul>	Look at teaching units on federal budget or foreign policy .
USA Today Education  www.usatoday.com/educate/home.htm	Also similar to Time , but less serious. A four-page lesson plan around the news is available online at 9:00 p.m. the night before class.	Daily information of national interest. Can use the teaching aids for all levels of students.

General Curriculum Resources

Awesome Library  www.awesomelibrary.org	Catalogues the top 5% of all education resources, from more than 20,000 sources.	Good set of rubrics and materials on public speaking for media and communications .
Blue Web'n  http://www.kn.pacbell.com/wired/bluewebn/	A Pacific Bell site that catalogues 1200+ blue ribbon learning sites on the web by subject, grade level, and format. Content table connects you directly to your area of interest.	Easy to navigate. The strength of this site is that it leads you, by topic, to 75 other hot web sites. For example, for health teachers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Personal Trainers and Wellness</li> <li>• Promoting Better Health through Fitness</li> <li>• The Real Scoop on Tobacco</li> </ul>
Buck Institute for Education  www.bie.org	A site focused on project-based learning and problem-based social studies with links to many project-based resources. Good source of projects for economics .	More of a site for teacher professional development than for lesson plans.
Center for Performance Assessment  www.makingstandardswork.com	A site devoted entirely to assessment and standards .	Very useful sections on Best Teaching Practices, Assessment Resources, and Performance Assessments created by teachers.
Curricular Resources and Networking Projects  www.ed.gov	Web site of the U.S. Department of Education. Particularly good access to state-by-state resources.	More useful as a general resource than a curriculum resource. Links to all topics in education. Good site for research reports.
