STANDARDS BASED GRADING

THINKING ABOUT GRADES
"Teachers must make thoughtful changes to their systems for reporting student learning and progress to parents and others. Just as assessment practices need to be authentic, so do reporting practices." - Bailey & Guskey

"The time has come to de-emphasize traditional grades and to demystify the entire grading process. We need to focus instead on the process of learning and the progress of the individual student." - Kay Burke

“If you wanted to make JUST ONE change that would immediately reduce student failure rates, then the most effective place to start would be challenging prevailing grading practices.” – Douglas Reeves

Perspectives on Grading
Grading Practices and Issues
Fixes for Broken Grades
Summary and Reflections

Fixes for ingredients that distort achievement
1. Don’t include student behaviors (effort, participation, adherence to class rules, etc.) in grades; include only achievement.
2. Don’t reduce marks on ‘work’ submitted late; provide support for the learner.
3. Don’t give points for extra credit or use bonus points.; seek only evidence that more work has resulted in a higher level of achievement.
4. Don’t punish academic dishonesty with reduced grades; apply other consequences and reassess to determine actual level of achievement.
5. Don’t consider attendance in grade determination; report absences separately.
6. Don’t include group scores in grades; use only individual achievement evidence.
7. Don’t organize information in grading records by assessment methods or simply summarize into a single grade; organize and report evidence by standards/learning goals.
8. Don’t assign grades using inappropriate or unclear performance standards; provide clear descriptions of achievement expectations.
9. Don’t assign grades based on student’s achievement compared to other students; compare each student’s performance to preset standards.
10. Don’t rely on evidence gathered from assessments that fail to meet standards of quality; rely only on quality assessments.
11. Don’t rely on the mean; consider other measures of central tendency and use professional judgment.
12. Don’t include zeros in grade determination when evidence is missing or as punishment; use alternatives, such as reassessing to determine real achievement or use “I” for Incomplete or Insufficient evidence.
13. Don’t use information from formative assessments and practice to determine grades; use only summative evidence.
14. Don’t summarize evidence accumulated over time when learning is developmental and will grow with time and repeated opportunities; in those instances emphasize more recent achievement.
15. Don’t leave students out of the grading process. Involve students – they can – and should – play key roles in assessment and grading that promote achievement.

A sampling of slides from the PowerPoint presentation:
Grading Misrules
• Giving students a second chance is soft.
  o Life is full of do-overs.
• Academic rigor means setting unreasonable expectations
  o Is about accountability
• The punishment paradigm produces the epiphany
  o ...more likely to quit!
• Students who are unsuccessful didn’t try
  o “Can’t” do vs. “Won’t” do

Stop
1. Grading Homework
2. Reducing Scores for late work.
3. Using “0” for work not handed in.

NO Grades for Practice (our position)
Anytime a student makes a first attempt at practicing new learning it should not be included in the grade book until the teacher provides descriptive feedback on the student’s work.
NO Late Penalties  (our position)
Students should be graded on the quality of their work (their ability to meet the desired learning targets) rather than how punctual the assignment is.

What’s in a Grade?
(Ministry of Education in British Columbia)
“...letter grades will be used to indicate students’ levels of performance in relation to the learning outcomes for each course or subject or grade.”

Aurora Public Schools, Colorado: Standards-Based Grading
“As part of the VISTA 2015 vision to “graduate every student with the choice to attend college without remediation,” APS has expanded the implementation of a standards-based grading system. APS successfully implemented Standards-Based Grading in all of their high schools in January 2012. (see PowerPoint, FAQs, and resources)

Standards Based Education  The right thing to do — for all of our students “Federal Way Public Schools’ standards-based education system establishes challenging and appropriate learning targets for all students. We do this in every course, at every grade level, and in every classroom. We use standards-based education across the district to ensure our entire students graduate with the critical knowledge and 21st century skills.
What is SBE?

1. Standards-based learning provides the foundation for 21st century learning opportunities that prepare students for today, tomorrow and the future.

2. Provides a fair and objective way to evaluate students based on what they have learned while providing the appropriate level of challenge and rigor.

4. Helps parents be knowledgeable participants in their students’ education.”
